the following are dangerous road areas in our parish and hopefully get those in higher status to look at making them safer.

In addition to the usual Croesyllan junction, there are many other parts of the village that are as dangerous in my opinion.

1. Speed down past the school is sometimes scary.
2. Lower Llechryd, just past the seven stars down to Flambards is very dangerous. There is a property on the right on the way down that gets it's wall knocked down regularly. Children walking to catch the bus with big fast vehicles is dangerous. When the bridge is flooded and the lower part there is more footfall and again dangerous.
3. Upper lady road, coming off from Blaenporth down to penllwyndu junction. The speed of traffic down here is always too fast as it is a cut through route. The Penllwyndu junction is also very dangerous as the crossroads has a blind spot.

From the junction down the straight and then right down to llechryd is always driven too fast and there have been fatalities on the junction
